Preface

From the time that California became a state in 1850, each county in the state has been required by law to register all eligible voters and to keep lists of those registered. The first records of this kind were county poll lists. Beginning in 1866 these lists were replaced by voter registers known as Great Registers. Each voter was required to register with the clerk of the county in which that voter resided. The clerk recorded each voter's full name, age, state or country of birth, occupation and address. Voters who were naturalized U.S. citizens had to give the name of the court and the date where naturalization took place.

An 1872 law required all counties to print an alphabetical list of their registers every two years. Once the registration period in a county was closed, the county's registrar of voters would send the register, at that time handwritten, to a printer where it would be printed out in a large bound volume.

These registers have become important tools for genealogists as well as other researchers. They can help in the location of most male citizens between the years of the federal censuses, and most female citizens after 1911, when women obtained the right to vote in state and local elections in California. The Great Registers for the year 1890 have taken on particular importance for genealogists given the loss of most federal census records for that year in a fire in 1921. For that reason the California State Genealogical Association (CSGA) instituted a project to computerize all the state's 1890 Great Registers. Genealogical societies in each county were asked to put the Great Registers for their respective counties in computer database form. This was a painstaking task. In the case of the Santa Clara County Great Register, it meant photocopying each page of a 147-page, 16-inch-long-by-11-inch-wide volume, then transcribing the printed material on to a computer disk, then sending the disk to the CSGA.

Once the CSGA had received computerized copies of all the registers, individual county organizations were free to reproduce their Great Register database copies as they saw fit. The Santa Clara County Historical and Genealogical Society (SCCHGS) voted to publish the 1890 Great Register for our county in book form, to maximize its accessibility to genealogical researchers. This meant extensive editing of the layout of the database to insure that all the information would appear in readable form on a standard 8 1/2 by 11 inch format.

The SCCHGS wishes to thank a number of our volunteer members for their exemplary work on this project. SCCGHS Database Manager Larry Mistretta photocopied and computerized the original register and then edited it into presentable book form. Former SCCHGS-president Micki Mistretta helped in the initial round of proofreading. She was also responsible for assembling the printouts for the final round of proofreading, which was done by her, Cynthia Biasca and Dean Thomas.

The Register begins with an official certification signed by the then-county registrar of voters, followed by the text of the Register. The last page is a cancellation document from the registrar, indicating the names of any registered voters removed from the register as a result of their moving out of the county during the registration period.

General Observation:

Age: The listed age appears to be as of the date of registration.

There are numerous instances of 21 & 22 year olds having been registered in the early 1880's. A brief glance at the 1892 Great Register corroborates this in some instances,
and fails to in others.

Use the given age with care.

There are 11,479 data lines (records) in the Great Register. The difference between this number and the last line number (11474) is explained by:

- 1 & 2) p. 20, lines 1527-1/2 and 1527-3/4
- 3) p. 31, line 2456 appears twice
- 4) p. 44 ends with line 3496; p. 45 begins with line 3496
- 5) p. 93, line 7318-1/2
